SAN DIEGO (FOX 5/KUSI) — San Diego International Airport has placed near the bottom of the list of large airports in North America based on a customer satisfaction study by J.D. Power.

The study's findings, released Wednesday, placed SAN 21st out of 27 “large” airports in its 2024 edition. “Large” airports were defined as those with 10 to 32.9 million passengers each year, according to J.D. Power.

The rankings were determined by overall passenger satisfaction across seven core dimensions: ease of travel, level of trust; terminal facilities; airport staff; departure/to airport experience; food, beverage and retail, and arrival/from airport experience.
